THE GREAT BARRIER REEF

- The Great Barrier Reef is located in the Coral Sea, off the northeast coast of Australia.
- It's composed of multiple individual reefs and coral cays (areas where the reef sticks out of the water to form islands).
- It's so large that it can be seen from space!
- The reefs are home to over 1,600 types of fish.
- The smallest fish in the Great Barrier Reef is called the stout infantfish and is smaller than 1/2 an inch!
- It's also home to some of the deadliest animals in the ocean—like the box jellyfish, whose venom is extremely toxic.
- When you recycle, you can make a difference in keeping places like the Great Barrier Reef clean and pollution-free—healthy waters make for happy fish!

Amélie has a lot of errands to do today!

First she has to go from her house to the post office, which is three blocks north. Then she has to go and pick up some croissants from the bakery, which is four blocks west. Then she has to deliver the croissants to Mrs. Dupont's house, which is two blocks south of the bakery. And then she has to go and pick up some milk from the grocery store, which is two blocks south and four blocks east of the bakery. And then, she can go home!

Use the grid below to draw a map that shows all the places that Amélie needs to visit, and figure out how many blocks Amélie's house is from the grocery store. Then fill in the rest of the city.

SUGAR SKULLS

In Mexico, they celebrate Día de Muertos, or Day of the Dead. It begins October 31st and ends November 2nd.

One of the decorations used on the Day of the Dead is a colorfully painted skeleton called a sugar skull. Despite the word "sugar," these skulls are not meant to be consumed. Instead, the happy, smiling skulls are adorned with icing, glitter, and sparkles, and then placed on gravestones to honor the return of the spirits. In addition to guiding the dead, sugar skulls are also commonly given as gifts to children.

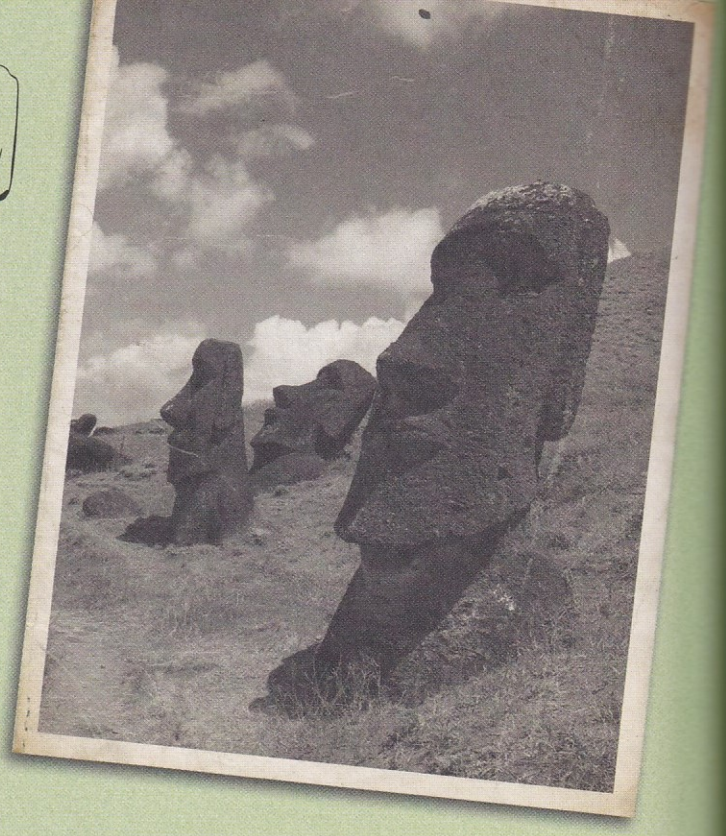
BIG HEAD ISLAND



The famous heads of Easter Island, called moai, are giant human figures that were carved from rock between 1250 and 1500 BCE. These 887 rock figures are as tall as 33 feet high and weigh as much as 86 tons! The popularity of images of these bodyless heads combined with the fact that the lower half of many statues are beneath the ground has led to the common misconception that all the Easter Island statues are just giant heads. However, many of the moai do have bodies. What do you think the bodies look like? Use your imagination to draw bodies on these moai.

THE AMAZON

- The Amazon is the world's largest tropical rain forest.
- It is home to many different species of wildlife, including about 40,000 plant species, 3,000 types of fish, and around 2.5 million different insects—that's a lot of bugs!
- The plants in the Amazon create so much oxygen that it is sometimes referred to as "the lungs of the Earth."
- There are about 400–500 Amerindian tribes who live within the Amazon rain forest.
- Over half of Brazil is covered by the Amazon rain forest.
- The rain forest's canopy (the very top of the leaves and branches on the trees) is so thick that the forest floor is in complete darkness!

ALL ABOUT VENICE

Venice is a city in Italy.

It has a few nicknames, including "The City of Water," "The City of Masks," and "The City of Bridges."

Waterways and canals are used to get around instead of roads. You'll have to park your car outside the city and get in a boat to get around.

The largest canal is called the Grand Canal, which curves in a backward "S" and splits the city in two.

There are many mask makers in the city, creating some of the most wonderful masks in the world.

A gondola is a small boat that has become a romantic symbol of Venice.

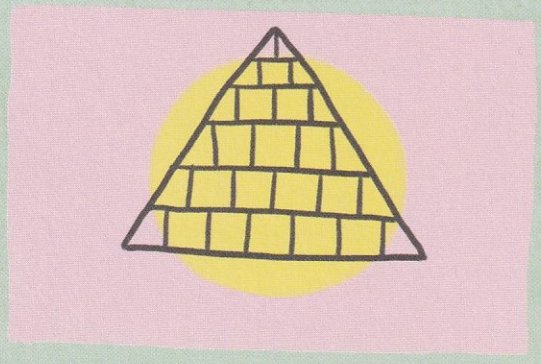
There are over 400 bridges in the city.

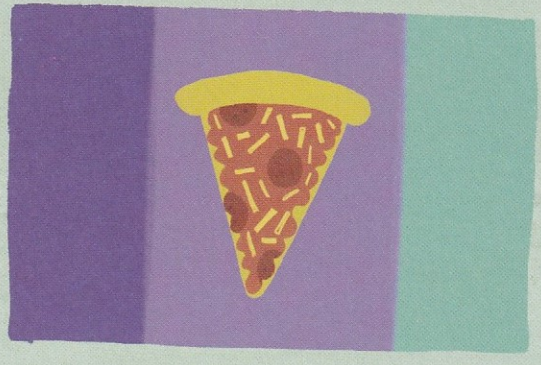
When the city was being designed, the waterways were used to keep invaders out.

With each year, the city sinks because the town is built on mud. One day, they believe the whole city will be underwater, but the Italian government is working to protect the beautiful city.

Because the city is sinking and water levels are rising, the city often floods during high tide.

Venetian masks are worn during Carnevale, or Carnival, where people dress up in costumes and celebrate with music, food, and dance.





FUN with FLAGS

There are so many different flags in the world! Use different colors, patterns, and icons to design your own flags.

WRITE A SHORT STORY ABOUT THE SCENE ON THE LEFT.

PAISLEY PALETTE

Indian patterns have distinct meanings. The paisley pattern, which resembles a twisted teardrop, represents the totality of life and is often used in meditation. Using colors that have a distinct cultural significance to decorate patterns that already have their own meanings serves to embed an even deeper and more intricate level of symbolism within the designs. Color this pattern to bring it to life.

PERPLEXING PATTERNS

Good luck finding your way through these ornate Indian patterns.

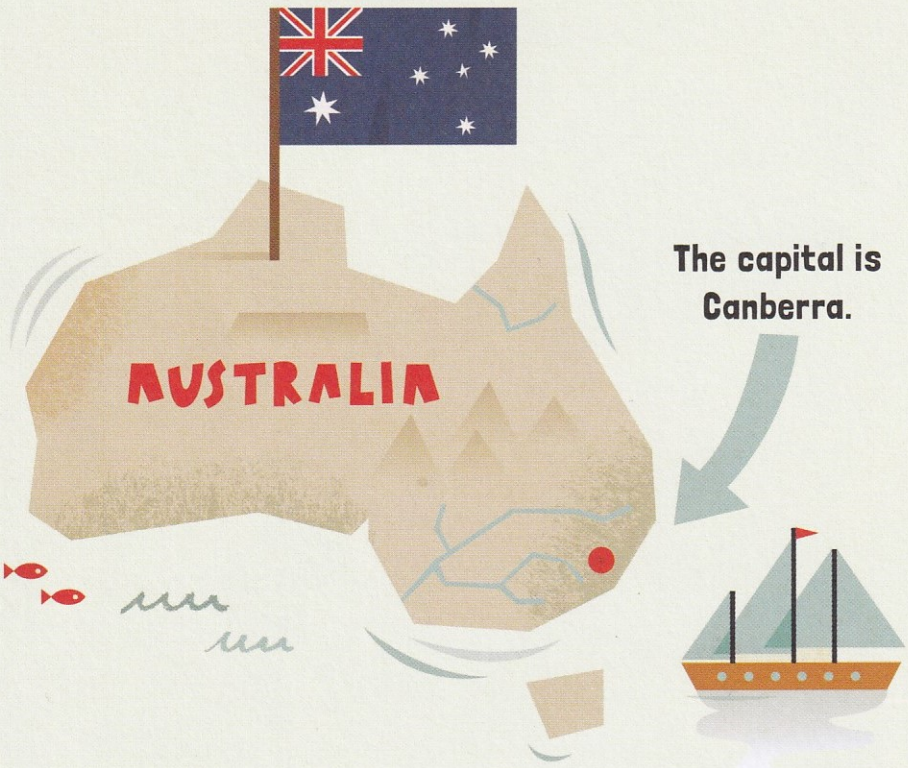
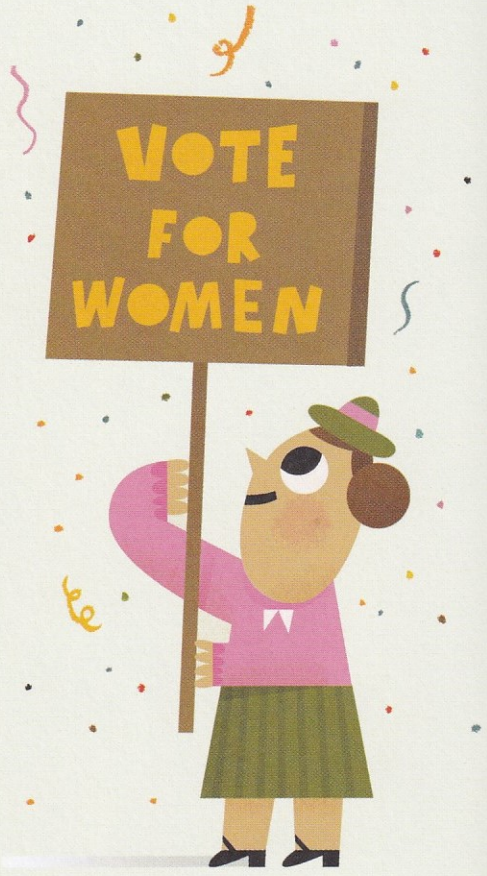
ALL ABOUT AUSTRALIA

Australia is its own continent and the largest island in the world!



The capital is Canberra.



Australia was one of the very first countries in the world to give women the right to vote and did so in 1902. Go, Australia!

The world's largest reef, the Great Barrier Reef, is found along the northeast coast of Australia.

More than 30% of Australia is a desert.

The summer season in Australia is from December to February, so forget all those songs about Christmas snow.

A lot of animals are found only in Australia, including the platypus, kangaroo, and koala. You won't find them anywhere else—unless you're at a zoo, that is.

A lot of those animals are scary, including about 40 species of poisonous spiders and 20 types of venomous snakes.

There are A LOT of sheep—about 100 million, which is one of the highest sheep populations in the world (China has the most).

CONTRIBUTORS

Teresa Bellon works for national and international clients and has had several exhibitions of her work. Her illustrations are influenced by Portuguese and Nordic children's books, with simple compositions and minimal color palettes. Teresa doesn't stay at home waiting for inspiration, she sets out to find it, traveling, walking through Madrid, and buying illustrated books.
(pages 1-2, 26-27, 46-48, 58-59, 66-69, 80, 90-91, 104, 108-109, 112 & cover)

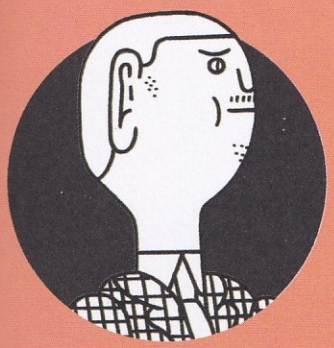
Jean Claude is a self-taught illustrator from Manchester, UK. While he's most at home with his drawing tablet and a cup of strong coffee, Jean also enjoys long walks with his dog, Ted, preparing elaborate meals, and visiting the zoo for artistic inspiration! (pages 4-5, 12-14, 28, 60-61, 88, 98-100)

Kathryn Selbert is a freelance children's book illustrator currently living in New Haven, Connecticut, with her French bulldog, Margot. She earned her BFA in illustration from the Rhode Island School of Design. Her work is inspired by the people she meets in her everyday life, our colorful world, flora and fauna, and having fun.
(pages 22-25, 30-31, 34-35, 39-40, 76-77)

Pranas T. Naujokaitis is a Chicago-based cartoonist whose work includes children's books/comics, autobiographical comics, and lovingly hand-crafted minicomics.
(pages 10-11, 20-21, 100-101)

Carles Ballesteros is an illustrator and educator living in Santiago, Chile. He uses a mixture of traditional drawing skills and digital techniques to create his work, which is often inspired by songs, films, pictures, books, children playing in parks, and even dogs trying to catch their tails. When he's not illustrating or teaching, Carles can be found practicing his music, taking photographs, watching movies, or playing sports.
(pages 7, 43-45, 65, 74, 78-79, 86-87, 96-97)

Clayton Hanmer is an illustrator whose crude, energetic comic style has given him a surprisingly broad range of clients from The New York Times to National Geographic Kids. He has illustrated several children's books including the recently released Half-Truths and Brazen Lies: An Honest Look at Lying by Kira Vermond (Owlkids Books, 2016). He lives in Toronto, Canada, with his super-awesome wife, amazing daughter, and weird cat named Graphite.
(pages 3, 8, 18-19, 36-37, 49-50, 53-54, 62-63, 98-99)



John Boam is a freelance artist who considers himself more of a graphic artist than an illustrator. He is inspired largely by science fiction and fantasy themes, which explains the abundance of robots, monsters, aliens, futuristic cities, strange technological devices, and various amorphous creatures in his artwork. He lives in Chesterfield, Derbyshire, UK, with his wife and kids. (pages 16-17, 29, 51)

Celeste Aires is an illustrator from Argentina who is mad about geometry. She does mostly editorial work, advertising, poster art, and experimental animation. Her art style has a mix of mid-century and modern that is strongly geometrical, has a minimal color palette, and is full of silly characters.
